

INFORMATION SOLUTIONS

The Advantage of Clarity

Transform the way your organisation accesses, interacts with and exploits information.

Frame develops information solutions that enable your business users to access content from any source, seamlessly delivered to any device, and with minimal disruption to your existing systems.

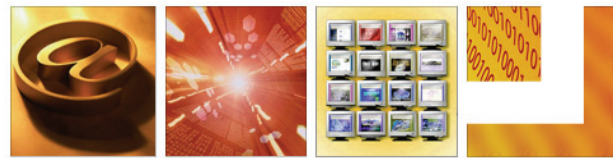

Are you making the most of your data?

Your business, like others, faces many challenges managing data. It's increasing in volume and it's arriving in multiple formats: email, databases, electronic documents, audio and video files, and scanned images. This makes it virtually impossible to keep it organised and up-to-date. And with the rise in popularity of handheld technologies, many company-related emails and documents never make it into the corporate records.

The end result is that employees waste valuable time searching one place after another for the information they need. They can never be certain they've found everything that exists and whether they have the most relevant and recent information.

As the volume of information within your organisation grows, the ability to access and re-use it becomes more difficult. Even using today's search solutions, the results are delivered in long, unstructured lists of data. This makes it difficult to find answers and can lead to immense frustration for employees.

Frame transforms the way that you access, interact and exploit your data by turning it into information. We implement solutions that put your data into context and allow your users to access any content, from anywhere, using any device.

Turn your data into information

We help you to maximise your corporate data and provide your users with fast and simple access to relevant content by:

- consolidating your complex information stores without the need for a complex data warehouse
- resolving issues and inefficiencies with your legacy application data and amalgamating it with current information sources
- providing a complete overview of available information at the one time, on any device, anywhere
- enhancing your business decision-making with a complete picture of the influencing factors
- overlaying your corporate data with content from external sources such as maps, demographics, iconography, statistics and web services
- leveraging existing content and presenting it to users using rich internet applications
- integrating with your security policies to ensure that restricted data is accessible only to authorised users.

INFORMATION SOLUTIONS

Align to your business architecture

Service-oriented architecture (SOA) allows different applications to exchange data and participate in business processes regardless of physical location, operating system or the programming languages that define their structure.

Implementing an SOA framework:

- enables reuse of services across the enterprise
- reduces the time to market for new initiatives
- increases interoperability between different systems running on different application frameworks and operating systems
- allows for the federation of resources across many application domains.

Frame has the expertise to design and implement an SOA framework that aligns to the strategic goals of your business and enterprise architectures.

Frame application solutions

Using core architecture principles and methodologies, the Frame application solutions team delivers solutions based on:

- developing rich internet applications (RIA) that give you desktop functionality through a web browser or mobile device
- building applications that integrate with your technology infrastructure to provide the benefits of collaboration and unified communications
- developing applications specifically for use on mobile devices such as BlackBerry and iPhone
- implementing best-of-breed solutions using technology sourced from Frame partners and the open source market
- enabling solutions through the use of web services and SOA
- optimising your enterprise architecture
- managing development using the rigour of a proven project management methodology and a mature governance framework
- leveraging collaboration tools to ensure a close partnership with you and your internal development team.
